AVIVA—FLAGSHIP FOR GERMAN BUILDER ABEKING & RASMUSSEN

At 323 feet (98.4 meters) in length, Aviva is the largest yacht ever built at Abeking & Rasmussen. This is the second Aviva designed by Reymond Langton Design. The owner, Joe Lewis, British businessman and the major shareholder in the Tottenham Hotspur Football Club, also built his 223-foot (68-meter) Aviva at A&R. The new yacht, at 4,966 gross tons, has an extraordinary amount of volume. She lacks for little. The pièce de résistance is the paddle tennis court on board—the first ever built on a yacht. abeking.com

ROSETTI PRESENTS NEW CONCEPTS

At the Palm Beach International Boat Show, Rosetti Superyachts presented plans for two additions to its custom collection, both designed by Tommaso Spadolini: a 157-foot (48-meter) pocket supply vessel and a 279-foot (85-meter) superyacht (pictured here).

The supply vessel has an open aft deck that's 59 feet (18 meters) long for carrying tenders and toys, while the superyacht has four decks with reduced gross tonnage and a low profile. Both the technical platform and the propulsion are by Rolls-Royce. rosettisuperyachts.it
